

Winter Fundraising Tips

Knitting Pretty - Don't let your friends and family get cold this winter, if you can knit why don't you put your talents to work and knit scarves and woolly socks to sell?

Winter Feasting - It doesn't take long to make a batch of mince pies or a plum pudding or two, so why not sell them at work? Ask your friends to help you in the kitchen so you can make enough for everyone?

Crafty Christmas -Do you like arts and crafts? Making your own Christmas cards is a lot of fun and if you can sell them at your local school bazaar you could boost your fundraising target

New Year Celebrations - If you own a glamorous evening dress but have nowhere to wear it to, then why not host your own New Year's ball? Hire a venue, invite your local community, book a band or DJ for the night and donate all ticket proceeds to Breast Cancer Care

Dinner Party - What can be better than having friends over for dinner? Why don't you and a few friends or family take turns to host a dinner party all in one week. At end of each evening, rate the host's performance – just like 'Come Dine With Me'! Ask for a donation to take part

Sell, sell, sell - If you have unwanted Christmas presents why not sell them on ebay and donate the money to your fundraising target?

Talent Competition - Hold a 'Britain's got Talent' evening. Promote the event to your community, ask the local drama teacher and singing teacher to judge, and find out who in your home town could be the next household name!

Open up the bar – host a competition to see who of your friends can create the best tasting mulled wine. Charge a fee for joining in the fun and relax with a tippie or two!

It's all wrapped up – offer your services to friends and family – can you wrap their Christmas presents or deliver 'by hand' Christmas cards? We are sure they will be very appreciative of your help in return for a donation

Festive Football – eaten a little too much during December? Then gather the local community for a football or rugby match. Anyone can take part for a small charge, ask your friends to rattle a collection bucket or two and run off your Christmas lunch!
